

Top 10 reasons to domicile your captive in Vermont.

- 1. MOST EXPERIENCED AND KNOWLEDGEABLE CAPTIVE INSURANCE REGULATORS According to the American Bar Association, "...the single most important factor in choice of domicile for a captive is... the amenability of the insurance regulators in the domicile to working with captive owners to make the arrangement a success." With more successfully operating captives than any other domicile in the world, Vermont's regulators are the most experienced and knowledgeable in the field and are consistently recognized as such by international trade publications and industry peers.
- 2. UNPARALLELED GOVERNMENT SUPPORT As the leading domicile worldwide for captive insurance, the Vermont governor and legislature recognize the importance of Vermont's captive insurance industry. Always striving for progress and innovation, Vermont's captive laws are reviewed and revised on a regular basis; a necessity to keep pace with the fast-changing needs of the industry.
- 3. SERVICE PROVIDER NETWORK In addition to having the support of the state government, Vermont has a sophisticated, diverse and extensive network of experienced captive service providers. From captive managers and accountants to actuaries and attorneys specializing in captive insurance, Vermont has all the support and expertise needed for your captive to thrive.
- 4. FOREFRONT OF CAPTIVE INSURANCE INDUSTRY Since 1981, when Vermont first adopted its captive insurance legislation, Vermont has been a leader in the global captive industry. That leadership is reflected, in part, by being the largest domicile worldwide with the most active captives licensed. Vermont is also the largest U.S. domicile with the most captives licensed, assets under management and total premiums written. As an industry leader, Vermont has seen a thing or two and is well equipped to handle all of your captive needs.

Vermont provides all of the resources necessary for your captive to thrive. And, with unparalleled government support, you can be sure your captive is strong, secure, and supported at every turn.

5. UNIQUE INFRASTRUCTURE With its in-house staffing of examiners and support personnel, Vermont's captive insurance regulators are able to efficiently process licensing applications, approve business plan changes and answer inquiries in a timely fashion. Vermont's captive team of dedicated partners provides ongoing support to help your captive insurance company evolve and grow.

6. ACCESSIBILITY Have a question or need clarification? Dealing with a thorny issue? Not sure whether a particular action you want to take is permitted? You can call Vermont captive regulators and they will actually pick up the phone. Ease of accessibility is a Vermont thing, not only with the regulators but also with our diverse array of captive service providers.

7. COMPETITIVE COSTS Vermont's licensing fees and premium taxes rates are competitive with other domiciles. Plus, unlike other states, our unique infrastructure of in-house examiners and support personnel can save you valuable time, money, and resources over the course of the relationship.

8. GOLD STANDARD REPUTATION When you choose to domicile your captive in Vermont, you can be confident you chose correctly—as did most of your peers. Over half of the Fortune 100 and Dow 30 have chosen the Gold Standard of Domiciles as their captive home due, in part, to our unwavering focus on quality regulation and service. Simply put, Vermont's reputation protects your reputation.

9. VERMONT IS HOME TO THE WORLD'S LARGEST CAPTIVE INSURANCE TRADE ASSOCIATION Having the world's largest captive insurance trade association—The Vermont Captive Insurance Association—helps Vermont maintain and improve upon its cutting edge captive insurance regulation. Over 350 members strong, the association also provides a wealth of professional education and network opportunities.

10. A FOUR-SEASON DESTINATION For those annual captive meetings, Vermont is easy to get to and has something to offer year-round. Whether it's enjoying Lake Champlain in the summer, taking in the fall foliage, hitting the slopes in winter, or hiking and biking in the spring, the reasons to visit Vermont are abundant.
